VOLUME 3, ISSUE 4.

April 2008

April beckons and we welcome the association of the Wrekin Forum, the I Am Foundation, the Saahera Centre and the Reiki Share Group at Bishops Lydeard with the network.

Event listings for the month ahead, book and film reviews, correspondence describing memories of Beech Cottage all contribute to the content of this April newsletter.

The latest additions to the on-line article archive are Geopathic Stress: What it is and what we can do about it? By Adrian Inclendon Webber and Are Our Roots in Sirius? By Murray Bruce. The Christ and the Feminine by Stanley Messenger and Discovering the Art of Spiritual Communication by Josephine Sellars are the 49th and 50th lectures to be added to the on-line digital lecture archive.

Are You Intuitive?

by Jeraldene Lovell-Cole

Everyone is born with the innate intelligence of intuition. But too often we are conditioned to distrust or ignore this direct experience of knowing. Intuition is one of the most refined abilities we have to guide ourselves through life, both personal and professional. Our intuition is communicating with us moment by moment, whether or not we are listening. If we can learn how to listen, we can experience intuitive insights when we need them.

Our intuition can guide us in everything from important life choices such as where to live, knowing our true work, finding the right partner, down to the really small things such as finding a place to park or knowing who is on the other end of a ringing phone. Practices such as Dowsing and Kinesiology rely greatly on the practitioner accessing their innate intuitive knowing.

The reason intuition touches all these different aspects of our life lies in the source of that intuitive knowing. Intuition can be felt as a pulse that comes from being in rhythm with Creator. Being consciously present, with this rhythm pulsing through us, is nothing less than having Creation/Creator guiding our lives. When we experience something that rings true, feels right, or hits the mark, and we can sense it with our entire body, at that moment, we have connected with the rhythm that is at the core of our being.

We are not separate from Creator/Creation although a lot of the time we behave as if we are. Quantum Physics tells us that all living organisms are connected to each other at a sub-atomic level. Many of the ancient wisdom traditions tell us the same thing. Therefore, we can learn to relax in the knowledge that we have a real and direct connection to the core of creation. Learning to recognise and use this connection is learning to use our Intuitive Intelligence.

Being Intuitive is different from being psychic. Intuition is a personal, direct and immediate knowing of the truth of something. Psychic is slower, usually more astral and always goes through the filter of whoever is tuning in. Psychic information can be valuable but we must line it up with our own intuition before following it. When information we pick up psychically resonates with our intuition, then we have a fit and can proceed.

I have been a professional psychic for almost thirty years and have always encouraged my clients to take what I see about them and run it past their own intuition to see if it rings true for them. I readily acknowledge that I have a filter that is made up from my life experiences and the level of consciousness I am living in at any given moment. I believe all psychics have this filter. Your own intuition therefore is the real authority.

Knowing how to consistently connect with your intuitive intelligence allows you to navigate your own life, wake up to higher levels of consciousness and be fully present as a Spark of God having a grand human adventure. Humanity is in need of a great awakening to this truth.

As you are still reading this article, you are already in touch to some degree with the knowing that you are a 'Spark' who is here to bring this truth to light, for the benefit of all those you come in contact with.

Whichever way we are inspired to serve, learning to listen to and trust our intuition is essential as it will lead us to become more physically present, more mentally clear, more emotionally balanced and more spiritually connected. Clear, insightful intuition is a tool that will serve all aspects of our lives.

To find out more about Jeraldene's work and details of her April workshop, contact her at Intuitive Intelligence Training on 01258-471094 or log on to www.intuitiveintelligencetraining.com

Memories of Beech Cottage

Dear Robert, further to recent letters featured in the newsletter, I wondered if I might recount a memorable evening once spent at Beech Cottage, the home of the late Nigel Blair.

Sunday evening sharing group meetings were regular events and on one occasion, I happened to arrive early. The front door was ajar, with a two legged stool lying in the hallway. It was no surprise to see the front door open as Nigel never locked it, but the sight of broken furniture was not expected. Walking through to the kitchen I found Nigel (assisted by a brush and bleach) frantically scrubbing the hands of the speaker who had managed to super glue his fingers to the third stool leg. Nigel's vigorous efforts freed the individual from the leg, although his fingers were very red and raw.

To his credit the speaker decided to continue what was a video orientated presentation. The video was loaded but the narrative was periodically interrupted by classical music. Nigel had several TV's and video's each inter-linked and tuned to a number of satellite broadcasters. Try as we might, we couldn't switch the music off and we eventually gave up. Things however improved for the speaker when we retired to the kitchen for a pasty and a cup of tea. A. Rawlinson (Dorset).

Film Review: Standing With Stones

by Michael Bott and Rupert Soskin

Standing with Stones is both a documentary film and an experience. Going beyond Stonehenge, filmmakers Michael Bott and Rupert Soskin capture the magic of megalithic Britain by visiting and filming at more than 100 ancient sites. For more information about the film log on to www.standingwithstones.com or email Michael at michael@standingwithstones.com

Book Review: Wisdom Affairs: Towards a Cartography of Enlightenment and Joyism for Wisdom Lovers

by Thomas Clough Daffern

This book explores the powers and dynamics of human relationships, as a vehicle for the advancement of wisdom, learning and enlightenment on planet earth. Philosophers have hitherto tried to work out systems of thought analysing ultimate reality (Aristotle, Shankara, Hegel, Marx) without somehow seeing that the core context in which humanity lives our journey towards enlightenment is in the context of our everyday relationships. Some spiritual teachers have therefore argued that for liberation mankind must effectively renounce relationship, especially sexual relationships, and adopt celibacy as a strategy towards liberation and moksha. But there is also another way, the way of the Druid, the Sufi, of Krishna, of the Sikhs, of Mahayana Tantric Buddhism, and of the Christian mystic who stays in love with the world, and rather than trying to flee it, seeks to transform their everyday life into a zone of love, wisdom and enlightenment.

This book argues for this radical middle way between renunciation and hedonism and examines examples from history, theology and mythology of exemplars who have walked this path towards salvation, not of the personal self but of the entire cosmic and social world system of which we are a part. The book is a revolutionary reframing of the true sacredness of marriage vows and intimacy, placing the duty of non-violence and peace at the forefront of all intimate relationships. It is a manifesto for the liberation of mankind from false desires and towards the realisation of authentic nirvana and enlightenment within the context of human relational existence. All serious spiritual seekers and those who are not wishing to leave behind the path of personal relationships and love are invited to study its arguments and philosophy in depth, and to explore its ideas. A to Z of the Esoteric Being Osiris / Seth – The conscious ego and the unconscious shadow. Osiris is the light of the world, both sun and moon, but personified because it is related to the light of conscious life which perceives the light. Just as the sun has to sink to be dissolved in to darkness before it can reappear refreshed, so the Conscious Ego refreshes itself by periodically dissolving in to the unconscious.
